BENS PrintToBox

The BENS PrintToBox filter enables printing into electronic printing compartments from systems that offer no such options (e.g. ERP-systems working without the usual Windows drivers). The electronic printing compartments are defined on the printer. The definition can be kept in a configuration file for the PrintToBox filter and activated on a virtual printer. Several different configurations can be defined, so that printouts are transmitted via various virtual printers to different electronic printing compartments. The printouts are saved at first and only printed out when the owner registers on the printer and demands his printouts that were buffered in the electronic printing compartment.
